Bronze Sports Ambassador

Training Day

Tuesday 4th October 2016

Our four Bronze Sports Ambassadors, Maddie, Noah, Bill and Thomas, took part in their training day at Mountbatten School. They joined the Bronze Ambassadors from the other Romsey schools, to learn about their new role and how they can make an impact back at school.

When they arrived the children took part in several teambuilding and trust exercises. They learn the importance of effective communication in order to achieve results and the need to support others who needed it.

Maddie, Noah, Bill and Thomas were buzzing with ideas during the afternoon, as they discussed what they would do back at school. Their plans include creating their own 'crew' to run a club and competition. They plan to introduce themselves in assembly and talk about the values of the School Games: determination, honesty, respect, passion, teamwork and self-belief.
